National Organic Week – Victorian events

Be Organic “Taste the Difference, Feel the Difference, Make a Difference”

Launch at Passion Foods, South Melbourne

Following the success of the inaugural 2008 National Organic Week (NOW), the Centre for Organic & Resource Enterprises (CORE) in collaboration with Biological Farmers of Australia (BFA) will present NOW 2009 from Friday 16 to Sunday 25 October, celebrating fresh, nutrient-dense food and body-friendly organic cosmetics and textiles.

Despite widespread drought and the global recession, there has been a growth in organic farm gate sales of 80% in the four years since 2004 and organic retail sales have topped the half billion mark.

NOW 2009 is a national showcase in which organic producers, processors, wholesalers, retailers, markets, restaurants, community groups, councils and schools will present the organic message in a number of ways; launches, workshops, in-store promotions, food and wine tastings, seminars, cooking classes, community and educational events and special discount offers - all designed to increase awareness and understanding of the personal and environmental benefits of organics.

The launch of NOW in Victoria will take place at South Melbourne’s Passion Foods. Ben Hardman MP, Parliamentary Secretary to the Victorian Minister for Agriculture, will officially launch NOW 2009 at the store on Friday 16 October at 10.30am, beginning a week full of action.

Steve Skopilianos, owner, Ladybird Organics and winner of the 2009 Innovative Marketing Award at the Ausveg Vegetable Industry Conference, will assist in the launch with a short presentation on why his company made the move from being a large conventional producer of salad leaves to organic.

Media and the general public are all welcome to attend the launch and join in the activities.

Passion Foods will run in-store promotions and tasting demonstrations of wine, cheese, cereals, fruit and veg, meat and other items from the 16th onwards, from about midday to 5 pm. Product suppliers will be on-hand to answer all your questions and explain the difference between organic and non-organic food production. There will be give-away organic showbags for customers.

A feature highlight of the launch will be the presentation of the inaugural Best Victorian Organic Retail Outlet Awards sponsored by Melbourne wholesaler Melba Fresh.

This is just one event taking place for National Organic Week.

Join in the festivity and check the National Organic Week Calendar on the NOW website www.organicweek.net.au for a list of organic activities near you.

ORGANIC – in a nutshell

Certified organic operators may not use GMOs or synthetic pesticides, fertilisers or additives and must observe stringent environmental and animal welfare regulations. A recently-released report by the French Agency for Food Safety (AFSSA) disclosed that organic foods are more nutritious than conventionally-produced foods and contain lower levels of pesticides and nitrates which have been linked to a range of health problems, including diabetes and Alzheimer's. Organic production is a system where everybody wins.
